The Institute for Public Health Innovation (IPHI)

is a unique non-profit resource that builds partnerships across sectors and cultivates innovative solutions to improve health and well-being for all communities in the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia. IPHI strives to improve the environments and conditions people live, age, work, learn and play; strengthens health service systems and public policy; and builds organizational and community capacity to sustain progress.

Formed in 2009, IPHI is one of 40+ member public health institutes within the National Network of Public Health Institutes (NNPHI). Public health institutes are growing and have become an integral part of the nation's public health infrastructure. Public health institutes work in conjunction with public and private partners to protect and improve the public's health, adding capacity such as workforce training, program development, research, and evaluation.

As the official public health institute serving the region, IPHI has quickly grown into an important partner at the regional, state, and local levels.

Involve.

Improving the public's health requires collaboration and partnerships. IPHI works with various partners to pursue healthier populations and communities.

Government

IPHI offers strategic capacity and resourcefulness to our local and state government partners.

Community Organizations

IPHI provides technical support and facilitates collaborative approaches among health-related organizations that work on the ground.

Health Care Providers

IPHI works with health care providers to integrate community-based population health strategies into medical care service systems.

Academic Institutions

IPHI partners with many leading academic institutions to test and evaluate innovative public health programs and bring national resources into the region.

Funding Organizations

IPHI works closely with public and private funding organizations to help implement grant-making programs and achieve the desired results from investments.

Inspire.

IPHI's purpose is to work across sectors to pursue innovative, prevention-oriented approaches to improve the public's health, and to ensure that all communities have greater opportunities to thrive. This will be accomplished by providing the following overarching benefits:

Design, Implement, & Evaluate Innovative Public Health Strategies

Work with partners to develop and put into practice effective solutions to the most critical public health challenges in our region.

Facilitate Cross-Sector Partnerships for Health

Cultivate partnerships across various sectors and disciplines that have are interested in creating community health and equal quality of life.

Provide Training, Technical Assistance, & Capacity Support

Build knowledge and develop the capacity of professionals and organizations, both public and private, that are contributing to the improvement of community health and well-being.

Support Effective Public Policy

Support the development and implementation of public policies that help to create healthy, flourishing communities.
